Objectives

At the conclusion of this session, participants will be able to:

- Discuss barriers to continuity of care for HIV-infected patients returning to Mexico
- Briefly review health care delivery systems in Mexico, including those for HIV services
- Facilitate continuity of care for HIV-infected patients returning to Mexico

Case

5

Juan is a 26 year-old HIV-infected patient being deported to Mexico. He does not remember all his medications, except “Sustiva, 2 colored pills...and Bactrim.” He asks if he can get HIV care in Mexico. He asks how much it will cost in Mexico, since he has not been there since he was a child. He was born in Zacatecas and tells you he thinks he may ultimately return there to live with his grandparents or relatives. He says he is afraid others will learn he is HIV-infected but wants to stay in care.

Questions

6

- Will US ICE clinicians be able to help Juan?
- Would you/your HIV clinic be able to help Juan?
- Can you connect Juan to HIV care in Mexico? How long would he have to wait to get medications?
- Do you think most US providers would be able to refer him? Why/Why not?
- What other information would you need to assist Juan? Why?

Recommendations for Providers Assisting HIV Patients Returning to Mexico

What's Available in Mexico

Nearly all HIV medications available in the United States are now available to Mexican citizens in Mexico through a range of public and private programs. Access to HIV medications in Mexico has expanded greatly in recent years.

HIV Treatment in Mexico

Each state has an HIV/AIDS director responsible for coordinating treatment and prevention programs. You or your patient can contact this person to determine the availability of HIV diagnostic tests and HIV medications in the state to which your patient is returning. Patients are treated either in general hospitals or in CAPASITS (HIV specialty clinics – “Centro Ambulatorio de Prevención y Atención en SIDA e ITS”). The CAPASITS network was introduced in Mexico in 2005 and is still expanding. As of 2008, it comprised nearly 60 centers around the country. See below for

- If available, 3 month supply of their current HIV medications
- A recent CD4+ T cell count (not free in all Mexican states)
- A recent viral load test result (not free in all Mexican states)
- A copy of the patient's chart including complete antiretroviral treatment history

Connecting to Care in Mexico

- A national toll-free hotline is operated by the Mexican federal agency in charge of HIV treatment and prevention, CENSIDA. Encourage your patient to call when they are in Mexico to find the closest care provider.
 - Phone: 01 800 712 0886 or 01 800 712 0889.
 - Online: <http://www.salud.gob.mx/conasida/> (Spanish).
- The list of CAPASITS (outpatient multiservice care centers) is available online at: <http://www.censida.salud.gob.mx/interior/capasits.html> (Spanish) or on the UMBAST website (<http://aidsetc.org/aidsetc?page=rep-umbast-mx>)

UMBAST is sponsored by HRSA and is a collaboration of the AIDS Education and Training Centers from the U.S.-Mexico border states, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and California.
